An error by Cupid Childs, Chicago's Aldermanic second base man, and a three-bagger by Tem Daly with two men on bases prevented the Brocklyns from suffering defeat at Washington Park yesterday afternoon. These incidents had the most direct bearing on the outcome of the battle but there were many other important factors that cut figures large enough to entitle them to consideration. Neither team played perfect ball and when Umpire O'Day called game at the end of the ninth inning because of approaching dark ress the crowd which had yelled itself hourse went out of the grounds fully cognizant of the fact that the Champions had crawled out of a very narrow hole.

Joe McGinnity, the "Iron Man," was pitted against Callahan, one of the craftiest pitchers the profession. Neither had the best support and both were hit hard in spots. In the first inning the Chicagos got a run on one of the scratchiest home run drives ever seen on a ball field. With two out Green put up a high fly close to the rightfield foul line. Keeler fly close to the rightheid foul line, a select and Jennings hustled to get under the ball and collided. They rolled over each other and Jennings leaped up with the ball in his band. As he tessed it carelessly into the diamond he meant to convey the impression that he had caught it. Green in the meantime was dash-ing around the bases full tilt. When he neared the plate the ball was thrown to Farrell, but the plate the ball was thrown to Farrell, but too late to shut off the run. Jennings said he aught the ball. Umpire O'Day said he didn't, so Green got a four-bagger.

Again in the second inning the Chicagos were lucky in making another home run. Ganzel hit a long liner to left. The ball struck a rock and bounded into the open stand out of sheckard's reach. It was a four-bagger, all right, and the crowd moaned. In the third two singles, a force and errors by Jones and DeMentreville netted two more runs, the Chicagos having things 4 to 0.

Keeler scratched a hit Jennings got a base on balls. Sheckard mered a fine two-bagger to centre and er scored. Jennings could have gotten o, but for some reason he stopped before hing third to look around. Then he went and was nipped at the plate on throws by m and Charman. Sheckard made a darand Clingman. Green came in on Gangel's single and the latter counted on a hit by Bradley, coupled with a fumble by Jones. Clingman's out put Bradley on third and Chance's base hit brought him in.

The Brooklyns promptly got into the game with a raily that made the crowd wild. Jennings opened the last half with a base on balls. Sheckard made a tremendous drive to right, the ball striking the canvas Secreen fifteen feet above the top of the fence. As the ball bounded back "Sheck" had to stop at second while Jennings scored. Dahlen got a base on balls, and as the fourth ball was a wild pitch Sheckard ran to third. De Montreville cracked a grounder straight at Childs. The Cupid tried to scoop the ball over to Clingman for a double play, but the ball got away from him and Sheckard scored. Tom Daly then lifted the leather to the fence in left centre for a screaming triple, sending in Dahlen and De Montreville.

One run was needed to tie the score and Farrell did the trick with a single which landed Daly on the rubber. The "Duke of Marlborough," however, foolishly tried to stretch the hit into a double and was caught at second. McGinnity followed with a shot at Cingman, who threw wildly to first, and Jones hit to Bradley for the second out. McGinnity, like Farrell, used poor judgment in attempting to reach third on the play and was the victim of a double play that closed the inning. At the end of the ninth inning O'Day called the game on account of darkness, while many in the crowd hooted. The score:

Just why Umpire Emelle called the game at the Polo Grounds yesterday afternoon is a mystery. The 700 spectators present were taken by surprise, and not a few unpleasant words were hurled at him when he left the grounds. The game was called while the New Yorks were at the bat for their half of the third inning. A few drops of rain began to fall and Emelle ordered a halt. After waiting thirty minutes, and for no apparent reason, play was stopped for good. There was not a drop of rain falling at the time. Probably it was for the best that the game was called, for indications pointed to trouble between Clarke and Davis. The former started in to kick in the first inning, when O'Brien hit the ball along the left field foul line. Emelle called foul and Clark protested. After O'Brien struck out Clarke dashed up to the umpire again. In the second inning he kicked once more on Mc-Creary's strike-out. Emalle then took off his mask and walking up to Clarke said:

"I am going to make you fellows stop this kicking or else you will have to get out of the game. I am sick of it and it has got to stop. The next time it occurs you get out.

Davis kicked long and hard in the second inning on Wagner's hit for two bases. The New York captain argued that it was a foul. The argument did no good, however. Emslie should have acted in his official capacity at this point and put both Clarke and Davis out of the game.

Hanlon Stops Outside Playing.

During the past few weeks several of the Brooklyn players have been indulging in ama-teur games in Long Island and New Jersey. A week ago Nops pitched over in Hoboken and McGinnity operated in a game at Freeport, L. I. Last Saturday Dunn pitched at Freeport and Kennedy appeared in the box for the Mystle Shrine's at Patchogue. As a result Manager Hanlon made an investigation yesterday except in Kennedy's case, as the latter was permitted to play with the mysterious team by personal in Kennedy's case, as the latter was permitted to play with the mysterious team by personal request.

"I have informed my men," said Hanlon to The Sun reporter after yesterday's game, "that any one of them who plays or pitches for an outside team during the rest of the championship season, will be fined $25 and suspended for two weeks without pay. I knew nothing about the games in which Nops, Dunn and Modinnity took part until I read of them in the newspapers. I allowed Kennedy to go to Patchogue on Saturday as a favor to triends of the Brooklyn club who wanted a pitcher and asked for one.

"I have been in baseball for twenty-three years and I never heard of such nerve before. All of these men receive good salaries for playing ball and do not need outside financial assistance. If one of them should pitch on Tuesday and should be asked by me to go in the box the next day or two again, he would demur on the ground that he needed rest. But here we have McClinnity pitching for Brooklyn on Friday and then running off to pitch another game the next day for an amateur club which paid him $30. Also Dunn, who, after laying off ten weeks because of a lanne arm, goes into the box for Brooklyn on Friday, and then skips down to Freeport on Saturday unbeknown to me. It's the greatest plece of nerve I ever heard of and will be storped. They say I have too many pitchers and that there is not enough work for all. If that is the case I may decide to let some of them go where they wil be kept busy."

Pitcher Dunn admitted to the reporter that it was a plece of nerve on his part to go to Freeport, but he said he didn't think it would do any harm.

"I just lobbed the ball over the plate," said Dunn, "and received awful support."

Gleason is still on the sick list. Doheny has not been released and it is not likely hat he will be. He will, however, he farmed out. The score on Saturday at Cranford, between the Cranfords and Lindens, was 4 to 3 in the Cranfords' favor.

Haverford Plays Another Draw, This Time

Against Shrewsbury. SHREWSBURY, England, July 23 .- The Haverford College cricket team played the eleventh game of its tour here to-day and another unsatisfactory draw was the result. The Americans had the best of the play, and declared their inning closed with only seven wickets down. Shrewsbury, however, went in for careful play and succeeded in playing out time.

Capt. Hinchman won the toss and he began the batting with F. C. Sharpless. The pair made a splendid stand for the first wicket, and 50 was on the board before the captain was retired on a quick catch in the slips for 24. Sharpless played grandly, and had 60 to his credit before he was caught at point. R. H. Patton again failed to connect, and C. J. Allen was unfortunately run out when he was getting set. W. W. Justice also yielded easily to a catch at mid-off, but C. H. Carter showed what he could do with his left-hand style and rattled up 58 in lively fashion. With the total at 221 for 7 wickets, it was decided to "declare."

Shrewebury saw there was no chance for a victory and played for a draw with the result that when stumps were drawn for the day the team was still in possession of the wickets, with only four men out. J. D. Craig played in splendid style and exhibited a number of strokes unknown to the visitors. The score follows:

Joe Gans Wants to Fight Erne or McGovern. That Al Herford is not bluffing when he says that he intends to try and induce either Erne or McGovern to meet Joe Gans, the Baltimore lightweight, was proved yesterday when he called on Jame J. Corbett and decos ted $1,000 in cash to bind a match with Erne, or failing in that he will take on the Brooklyn fighter. Gans has already met Erne and lost in the twelfth round. Herford has the following to cans has already not have the following to say regarding his proposition:

"Now, if Erne will not accept this challenge, I will let this thousand go as a forfelt for a match with Terry McGovern, and will agree to the same terms as the Erne-McGovern match—that is, that Joe Gans will agree to stop McGovern in ten rounds; if not, McGovern is to get the decision. The only concession I ask is that McGovern allow Gans to weigh in at the lightweight limit, and a match between these boys would create a vast amount of interest on account of the easy way that Gerriel Terry disposed of Erne. Now, if the said McGovern will not meet either Gans or Erne, I would like to make a match with Frank Erne, thereby settling all doubts as to who is best entitled to the lightweight championship."

Peter Maher to Fight Joe Choynski. Ever since his easy victory over Steve O'Donnell, Peter Maher has decided to do a lot of fighting these days. His latest match is with Joe Choynski. The pair are to come together for six rounds at Chicago on Aug. 17. Maher says that if he wine he will go after Jim Jeffries.

ANOTHER TRIUMPH FOR IMP THE OLD MARE WINS IN A GALLOP

AT BRIGHTON BEACH.

Jack Point Runs Up to Handicap Form and Easily Outfoots Decanter—Maximus Bid Up 81.200 After the Second Event-Usual Sur-More picturesque and interesting racing has rarely been seen on an "off day" than that which attracted 5,000 patrons to Brighton Beach yesterday afternoon. Still it was not up to the standard promised by the programme issued in the morning, as owners made one of their most inblushing attempts to wreck the card. There was provocation enough for the kicking heard on all sides among visitors and but for the presence of Imp and Jack Point in their respective races there would have been little to applaud or

When the blue penofi got in its fine work the only borses left to oppose Imp in the second race were the three-year-olds, Plucky and Wateroure. The liberal odds of 2 to 5 were quoted against the wonderful black mare, as Wateroure with only 90 pounds up looked a good 2 to 1 investment. Plucky went begging at 50 to 1, but put up a race that will make his price much shorter in easier company. Mitchell good 2 to i investment. Plucky went begging at 50 to 1, but put up a race that will make his price much shorter in easier company. Mitchell held Imp under strong wraps after fiarfall and let Watercure make the running. Little-field's gelding set a strong pace and seemed to have more speed than the old mare along the backstretch. Mingled groans and cheers emphasised the critical stage of the race when Watercure awung into the homestretch three lengths in front of Imp. There was a momentary luil while slasses were again focussed and then a mighty cheer foretoid the fact that the Chillicothe idol had been merely playing with her younger rival. Imp came along to the wire in the same old frictionless fashion that has broken the bearts of better horses than Watercure, and won comfortably by a length. Plucky hung en and made up so much ground that he finished within a length and a half of the place horse. The time hung out was decidedly good considering the easy manner in which Imp came home.

When the old mark returned to the scales she was greeted with a resounding chorus of welcome, including yells from her elated colored handler, who sung out repeatedly: "She's still asleep; they never did wake her up."

Decanter's close second in Voter's record mile last week made him favorite in the handicap at one mile and a quarter, but Jack Point, who holds the Eastern record for the latter distance, had a following which increased in numbers and confidence after he warmed up without any sign of lameness. Maid of Harlem was not seriously considered, wher hand a true and game race. Decanter outran Jack Point in the opening quarter and took the rail at the paddock turn, Jack Point took all the steam out of him on the backstretch and then drew away at will, winning easily by a length and a half after a bruising struggle with Apple of My Eye, who beat Baron Pepper two lengths. RESULTS ON OTHER TRACKS. At Hawthorne.

CHICAGO, July 23.—Hawthorne began a twelve-day meeting to-day under favorable conditions, the weather being good and the attendance unusually large. The card was not a particularly attractive one, and there were two upsets. The only odds-on favorites of the day. Scales and Orimar, were teleated. The Scales race was a bad-looking affair. This oolt appeared to be a natural 3 to 3 chance, but he was never a factor in the race, and was beaten a sixtenth of a mile. The only explanation to be offered is that the colt sulked. Eva Rice was heavily played to beat Orimar in the last race, L'Hommedieu being among those who plunged on her. She won in a hard drive, but Orimar's race was below par. Twenty-six books drew in for three days, and B. Schreiber was again on the block. The judges suspended Devin for his ride on Mint Sauce, pending an investigation. Summary:

> Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN. PARIS. July 23.-The American athletes who took part in the international games were banquetted this evening in the American Pavilion of the exhibition by Commissioner Peck. Among the guests were Ambassador Porter and Senator Depew. The university lads created much amusement by giving their college cries in honor of various guests. The University of Pennsylvania was most largely represented and carried off the palm, though it was closely followed by Princeton, Michigan and Chicago Universities. The toasts proposed by Commissioner Peck, Ambassador Porter, Director Spaulding and M. Merillon, who represented France, were loudly cheered. The gaileries were filled with American women, who thoroughly appreciated the merriment and the good things said at the banquet. Several allusions were made to Presidents McKinley and Loubet, whose names were immediately saluted with college cries, The most fraternal feeling existed. Commissioner Peck called upon a representative of each university team to make a speech. The Chicago University student adopted a modest, unboastful tone and his speech was declared to be the best of any made by the young Americans. Senator Depew closed the evening with by National Regatta. Unless rowing enthusiasts come promptly forward with subscriptions to send abroad the winning crews in the special races at the National Regatta, the scheme will have to be considerably curtailed, as the fixture, which was eminently successful from every other point of view, was a failure from a financial standpoint. Julius D. Mahr, the member of the N. A. A. O. who had charge of the stands and boxes from which the association expected to realize at least $2,000 and complete the fund raised mainly by local oarsmen, said yesterday that instead of yielding a revenue the venture resulted in a loss of several hundred dollars. The National Association will have to stand the deficit out of its treasury.

Instead of the $5,000 required only about half that sum has been raised. There is little prospect of the ciulis or rowing men of the Harlem River contributing further, as they have already donated $3,500, including the necessary expenses of the regatta. It was the general opinion of those who discussed the situation vesterday that it is now up to Philadelphia, and that unless the sportsmen of the Quaker City unloosen their purse strings, there is a strong chance of the Vesper eight being unable to make the trip. So far, Philadelphia and the other cities outside of the metropolitan district, have done little toward advancing the project financially.

The Executive Committee of the N. A. A. U. is in a quandary, and the members are puzzling their brains to find a way out of the dilemma. One of the committee said vesterday that it is unlikely that Romohr will be sent as an extra competitor for the single sculls and that Lewis, who with Ten Eyek was unopposed for the double sculls, may possibly be left at home. This would make ten men, including a coxewaln, to be provided for. The crews in this event would be placed in the unenviable position of being without one substitute, in case of sickness or accident to any one of its members. Even with this reduction at least $500 more is needed to defray the expenses of the team.

Unless sufficient money is forthcoming the American entries may be confined to the vesper four and Ten Eyek. This would be plainly within the rights of the association as in the circular sent out. When the scheme originated it was distinctly stated that the number of men sent to represent America would en standpoint, Julius D. Mahr, the member of the N. A. A. O. who had charge of the stands

NEWS OF THE WHEELMEN. FIFTEEN CONTINUOUS CENTURIES

COMPLETED BY MRS. JANE LINDSAY.

Hours' Sleep She Gains the Coveted Records -164 Hours and 40 Minutes Her Time -Details of the Task-Riders Going to Paris. At 2:40 o'clock yesterday morning the longest ntinuous century ride ever performed by woman-1,500 miles in 164 hours 40 minutes was completed. Mrs. Jane Lindsay, the performer, was not then fit to be sent any furher, but she needed no assistance to dismount from her wheel, and she was as clear in mind as ever she was, but wofully wearied. There were a couple of score of Century Road Club members and other enthusiasts about the Valley Stream Hotel at the finish, but there was no such demonstration as was made at the end of 1,000 miles, when the time made by Mrs. Lindsay was 101 hours and 58 minutes, nearly 11 hours ahead of the time made by Miss Gast. The diminutive rider was seized by Charles Mock and Mrs. S. L. Stewart and walked to her room. She had nothing to say except that she was "all right." It was considered probable on Sunday that Mrs. Lindsay would be strong enough at the end of the 1,500 niles to go on and try to ride 2,000 miles. This was destrable in order to act as a possible deterrent to any other woman century rider who might aspire to beat her record. It was not, however, considered advisable to urge her to do more.

What Mrs. Lindsay accomplished was to beat the time of Miss Gast and all other women for continuous centuries from 100 miles to 1,000 miles and establish new records from 1,000 miles to 1,500 miles. She made a clean sweep of it and at the end was within two hours and sixteen minutes of the time made by lank but powerful Will Brown. The difficulty of the task cannot be easily represented by figures, but the fact that she started at 6 A. M. on Monday morning, July 16, and in the 164 hours and o minutes that elapsed until the finish yeserday, she slept but 13 hours and 52 minutes affords an idea of the physical drain. In all

Mrs. Idadsay is a Virginian by birth and now resides with her husband in Brooklyn. She is 5 feet 2 inches tall, with blue eves, brown hair and a completion that might be called sandy. She is not beautiful, but is well spoken and of quiet demeanor, hard to lead into a conversation. Yesterday after her ride she had a couple of hours' sleep, then a walk and some more sleep. When seen by a reporter of The Sun in the afternoon she was reeting on the piazza of the hotel where she stops. She was much sunburned, her hands being bistered and her face freckled. Her eves were clear and she spoke lucidir, but languidly. When asked why she had not continued for 1,000 miles she replied: "What was the use? I have all the records and there was nothing in going any further." Asked if she felt more tired than she did last year after riding soo she answered simply: "Of course; I rode farther."

she answered simply: "Of course: I rode farther."

The wheel used by Mrs. Lindsay is a track racer model weighing nineteen pounds and geared to $0, with 6½-inch cranks. It is a diamond frame twenty-two inches high. The position of Mrs. Lindsay while riding was peculiar in being a backward one, the saddle being on the end of an L post turned toward the rear. This was an idea of Mock's which he borrowed from the style of Charlie Miller, the six-day track rider. It saves the strain on the wrists and makes the steering easier. Mrs. Lindsay rode throughout without having her handlebars swaddled or her wrists lamed. She intends to remain at the Valley Stream Hotel for a week and "train off" and she says that next Sunday she will be in better condition than ever she was in her life before. The "training off" will consist in blevele riding every day, walks and massage, and dieting to prevent any reaction. every day, walks and massage, and dieting to prevent any reaction.

Regarding the ill effects consequent upon such a ride Mock, who has taken some of them himself and been adviser for several others, said yesterday: "There is no trouble if one tapers off properly. The whole danger lies in the reaction that comes when a person stops suddenly and does not keep on exercising heavily. A person ought to train just as long and as carefully after a big ride as before. That is all the secret, and if they do it will do them good."

POLO.

H. L. Herbert Has Not Heard From the English Players.

H. L. Herbert, chairman of the Polo Association, said yesterday that he had not as yet received a cable from the English poloists who have been taiking of coming over to play against our teams. He is hopeful that a favorable decision may still be cabled, but, as the answer was to have been here in advance of Foxball Keene's arrival on Saturday, Mr. Herest was received to think that the street was received. answer was to have been here in advance of Foxhall Keene's arrival on Saturday, Mr. Herbert was inclined to think that the chances were against the players coming over this seeson.

The Field of July 14 gives a detailed account of the match for the "America cup" at Hurlingham on July 7 between the challenger, Walter McCreery, F. J. Mackey, Foxhall Keene and Lawrence McCreery, and the English team, the Hon. J. Beresford, F. M. Feales, W. S. Buckmaster and John Watson. The Hon. R. T. Lawley was referee for England, the Earl of Harrington undertaking the duties of umpire for America. The score was 8 to 2 in favor of England, Foxhall Keene and Lawrence McCreery scoring for America. The Americans were on the defensive throughout. In its comments the Field savs:

"Our own idea throughout was that the English team would win, but we certainly never for a moment dreamt that their victory would be so complete. " Throughout the American team were decidedly outplayed at every point, though individually each one of the beaten team did all that lay in his power."

The proper title of the trophy is the "Polo international cup." It was won at Newport by a teum of English players led by John Watson, in 1886, who beat a team of the Westchester Club, made up of T. Hilchock, Jr., W. K. Thorn, Jr., Foxhall Keene and Raymond Belmont. The English team won two straight in a series of three matches, the scores being 16 to 4 and 9 to 1. This month's match was the first since the Hurlingham team at Newport. The cup is held subject to challenge from any international

The same was for a challenge cup offered by the Saratoga Association. On Wednesday the game will be between Saratoga and Westchester teams.

BUFFALO, July 23. Dave Sullivan of New York knocked out Luke Burke of Lowell in the fourth round of their bout at the Olympio Club to-night. Sullivan was favorite at 2 to 1, but there was little betting. The men roughed it all the way through, and the referee despaired of parting them and let them fight themselves out of clinches. Burke was the aggressor in the opening round and had a shade the best of it. Sullivan's superior strength fold in mixing it up, but nevertheless Burke scored aclean knock-down in the second and went flat on his own back when Sullvan landed a right swing.

They fought "avagely throughout the third round, rolling over on the floor, punching in clinches and making a straight slugging match of it. In the fourth Sullvan rushed Burke and floored him with a hard right on the mouth Burke took the full count, rose grocey and rushed at Dave, who swung the right straight to the mark and put Burke in dreamland.
